Historical Context

Alabama has a long history of higher education, beginning in 1818 with the federal government’s authorization of the Alabama Territory to set aside a township for the establishment of a seminary of learning. Alabama was admitted to the Union on December 14, 1819, and a second township added to the grant. On December 18, 1820, the seminary was officially named "The University of the State of Alabama." In 1827, Tuscaloosa, then the state’s capital, was chosen as the university’s home. On April 18, 1831, inaugural ceremonies were held, and Alabama’s first university was opened.

Although most universities are governed by a board of trustees, the Commission on Higher Education has the statutory responsibility for the planning and coordination of higher education in Alabama. Created by the Alabama legislature in 1969, the commission is responsible for the administration of various student aid programs and the performance of designated regulatory functions. Statutory responsibilities of the commission include the approval of new academic programs, the annual funding recommendation to the governor and the legislature on behalf of the public higher education institutions, and the approval of off-campus offerings. The Alabama Commission on Higher Education must approve any new unit or program of instruction for academic credit before state funds can be spent on it. The commission also is responsible for monitoring program viability standards and reporting information on institutional facilities.

Agency Organization

Currently, there are fourteen public universities as follows: Alabama A&M University, Alabama State University, Athens State University, Auburn University, Auburn University at Montgomery, Jacksonville State University, Troy University, University of Alabama, University of Alabama at Birmingham, University of Alabama in Huntsville, University of Montevallo, University of North Alabama, University of South Alabama, and the University of West Alabama.

Agency Function and Subfunctions

The mandated function of each of the public universities of Alabama is to provide education to its clients. The universities are some of the agencies responsible for performing the Client Services function of Alabama government. In the performance of their mandated function, the universities may engage in the following subfunctions.

- Admitting/Expelling Students. Each university has requirements that must be met for a student to be accepted for enrollment at the university. Students apply to the university, and the university verifies the application materials and decides to accept or deny the application. Some accepted applicants may be placed on probation until certain criteria are met. Failure to meet these criteria may result in the student losing his/her acceptance to the university. Each university has other policies governing students, including their academic requirements, that when broken, may result in the students being disciplined and/or expelled. These expulsions may be appealed, in some instances, to the university's discipline oversight committee.
- Conveying Knowledge. Teaching is the primary activity of this subfunction, which is the direct link between the university and the individual student, and is the process that all other education activities support. Universities also use internships to convey knowledge. Other areas under this subfunction include those that support the learning process, e.g., university libraries, museums, archives, and learning centers.
- Evaluating Performance and Conferring Credentials. This subfunction includes activities that measure a student's academic achievements and school performance. Evaluation consists of measuring knowledge and skills acquired in individual classes. Graduation from a university not only requires the successful completion of a designated course of study, but also may include the passing of written and/or oral comprehensive exams and/or completion of a thesis or dissertation and its defense.
- Advising and Assisting Students. Universities provide services to their students in addition to conveying knowledge. These services include providing financial assistance, housing, care, activities, and guidance. Assistance comes in the form of financial aid including loans, grants, scholarships, and work study. Much of this aid is coordinated with other state and/or federal agencies. Universities may provide housing opportunities to students through university-owned housing. The university coordinates the application and leasing process with students. Many universities have medical facilities available to students. These facilities may be owned by the university or coordinated through private entities. The universities also provide activities for the students that allow them to participate in sports, to explore personal interests and possible future professions through clubs and organizations, and to experience the democratic process through school elections. The universities also offer career and educational guidance.

- Enforcing Laws. Universities coordinate campus safety. These activities may include, but are not limited to, writing warnings or citations for violations of traffic laws, creating and implementing plans to deal with potential threats such as severe weather or active shooters, and executing laws and keeping the peace.
- Conducting Research. Some universities carry out research activities. These research activities may be conducted by an individual or may be carried out as part of a research center. These grants may be either externally or internally funded. Universities may apply for grant money to fund these research projects. The results of research usually are published.
- Administering Internal Operations. A significant portion of each university's work includes general administrative, financial, and personnel activities performed to support the programmatic areas of the university.

Managing the University: Activities involved in managing the university may include internal office management activities such as corresponding and communicating; scheduling; meeting; creating policy and procedures; reporting; litigating; drafting, promoting, or tracking legislation; publicizing and providing information; managing records; and managing information systems and technology.

Managing Finances: Activities involved in managing finances may include the following: budgeting (preparing and reviewing the budget package, submitting the budget package, documenting amendments and performance of the budget); purchasing (requisitioning and purchasing supplies and equipment, receipting and invoicing for goods, and authorizing payment for products received); accounting for the expenditure, encumbrance, disbursement, and reconciliation of funds within the university's budget through a uniform system of accounting and reporting; authorizing travel; contracting with companies or individuals; bidding for products and services; and assisting in the audit process.

Managing Human Resources: Activities involved in managing human resources may include the following: recruiting and hiring eligible individuals to fill vacant positions within the agency; providing compensation and benefits to employees; supervising employees (evaluating performance, disciplining, granting leave, and monitoring the accumulation of leave); and providing training and continuing education for employees.

Managing Properties, Facilities, and Resources: Activities involved in managing properties, facilities, and resources may include the following: inventorying and accounting for non-consumable property and reporting property information to the appropriate authority; constructing buildings and facilities; leasing and/or renting offices or facilities; providing for security and/or insurance for property; and assigning, inspecting, and maintaining university property, including vehicles.

Records Appraisal of Public Universities of Alabama

Records Appraisal

The following is a discussion of the two major categories of records created and/or maintained by the public universities of Alabama: Temporary Records and Permanent Records.

I. Temporary Records. Temporary records should be held for what is considered their active life and should be disposed of once all fiscal, legal, and administrative requirements have been met. Some examples of the temporary records created by the universities are discussed below:

- Recruitment Materials and Records (excluding reports, statistical information, or procedures). Recruitment materials are used to recruit students to attend the university and include videos, publications, posters, advertisements, flyers or buttons/pins. Files also may be created for the recruitment of specific students. The files are kept for one year or until the student enrolls, whichever is shorter. Prior to the destruction of these records, their disposition should be discussed with the university archivist, as the archivist may want to preserve some of them. The reports, statistical information, and procedures regarding recruitment are permanent records and are not covered by the temporary retention period.
- Distance Education Student Record Protection Plans. Universities that offer distance education to students in other states may be required by those other states to sign a student records protection plan ensuring that if a university closes, that institution has an agreement for the transfer of those student records. If a university needs a repository to sign such an agreement stating that students would have access to their records in the case that the institution closes, the university may contact the Alabama Department of Archives and History for signature as the designated repository. These forms need to be maintained until superseded.
- Alcohol Influence Reports. These records document incidents of driving under the influence of alcohol and are recommended to be retained 85 years because the law allows drivers to challenge a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol for the extent of his/her driving career.
- Employee Work History. These records, which are generally maintained as a case file and include records of final leave status and faculty service reports, are used to verify employment. Because the universities are outside of the State Department of Personnel system, the records are kept 25 years after separation of an employee from the university. Medical resident files are kept 75 years to document practice at the university's hospital.

II. Permanent Records. The Archives Division recommends the following records as permanent.

Admitting/Expelling Students

- Recruitment Materials and Records. These records are summary documentation of the recruitment process and are necessary to document the activities of this subfunction.
- Student Handbooks. The student handbooks document school policies and procedures as they affect individual students. They are useful in researching changes in policy and in documenting the policies in force at a given time.

Conveying Knowledge

- Course and Curriculum Records (records of approved classes). These records, which include approved class/course schedules and annual bulletins, are created during the process of deciding on courses to offer/continue within each university program. The records are necessary for long-term administrative use and to document the creation of programs of study.
- Special Program Files. These records document the subfunction Conveying Knowledge through programs created by the University to reach out to the community. The Special Program Files focus on the published content of these community outreach programs. Many of the records created by these programs will be covered through series as listed under Administering Internal Operations; however, core documentation of these programs and their products should be maintained permanently.
- Archives Records (accession/deaccession records, collection catalog information, and control files for manuscripts and artifacts). The permanent records of libraries and archives are those records that document ownership, description, condition, and restoration of permanent collections. Accession records are necessary to document the legal ownership of items by the university. Deaccession records that document the release of custody of collections from the university are necessary to prove that the item is no longer the responsibility of the university. Collection catalog information contains much of the known information about each artifact in the collection. The descriptions and other information document the history of the item and are necessary to place the object in context. Control files consist of records documenting evaluations of, and actions taken on, holdings of the department.

Evaluating Performance and Conferring Credentials

- Final Grades. These records document the grades given by an instructor to the members of a particular class. Their permanent retention is recommended by the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers (AACRAO).
- Graduation Lists. These records are lists of individuals who have successfully completed the degree requirements and have graduated from the university. Note: This list may be part of the Board of Trustees minutes.
- Individual Student Academic Records (not including continuing education records not required to produce a transcript). These records consist of the official student record of an individual student for his/her period of enrollment at a university and include all academic documentation for an individual student, including transcripts, narrative evaluations, competency assessments. Their permanent retention is recommended by the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers (AACRAO). Continuing education records not required to produce a transcript are not permanent.

Advising and Assisting Students

- Student Publications (university-wide). University-wide student publications, which may include newspapers, yearbooks, and magazines, that document the university and its students. The publications may be useful in examining student life and university efforts to promote student life.
- Athletics Case Files/Infractions Files (files of substantiated allegations). These records are created in the course of investigations of alleged infractions of rules of athletic associations such as the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA). The files of substantiated claims are kept permanently to document the violation and its outcome to assist in future investigations as well as to document university actions.
- Official Squad Lists. These records document who was officially a member of a university sports team. The records are necessary to prove that an individual was on a team because the information is not always documented in any other university record.

Conducting Research

- Research Project Records (final reports and publications). These records are created over the course of a research project and document procedures, steps taken, and results. For projects associated with grants, see grant records under administering internal operations, managing finances. Final reports and publications should be maintained permanently.

- Grant Records (data management plan and final grant reports/publications). See administering internal operations.
- Research Policies. These records document the policies of a university and/or department regarding its research at a given time. They document what policies existed as well as the evolution of university research policies.

Administering Internal Operations

- Board of Trustees Records. These records document policy and rule development by the university, proposals, and required reporting by the departments and committees to the board. These records may include meeting agendas, minutes, reports, and proposals, as well as documentation of the award of honorary degrees and citations.
- Records of University-wide Standing Committees. These records, which may include minutes and recommendations, are necessary to document policy and rule development by the university.
- President's/Chancellor's/Vice President's/Athletic Director's Files. These records, which do not include routine correspondence, document the policies and actions of the universities.
- Policies and Faculty Handbooks. These records, which include staff manuals, document the guidelines, policies, and procedures of the universities.
- Accreditation Records (final assessment/self-study reports and responses). These records document accreditation reviews by accrediting agencies and are necessary for use in future reviews and are useful to researchers of the accreditation process and of the university.
- Annual Reports. The annual reports are summary documentation of the activities of the university and include enrollment statistical reports. (Bibliographic Title: State Publications)
- Publications and Publicity Materials. These records include publications concerning the university and its work and are issued for distribution to the public. Publicity materials document university activities and may include newsletters, programs, speeches, photographs, contact prints, negatives, enlargements from negatives, audio and video tapes, and transparencies. Note: for each item there should be an identification that includes subject, the occasion, the place, and the date. (Bibliographic Title: State Publications)

- Website and Social Media Site(s). The university may maintain a website or participate in social media sites. The university is responsible for capturing and preserving the university website as often as significant changes are made.
- Class Gift Records. These documents provide a record of gifts given to the institution by senior classes. These documents may include, but are not limited to, gift lists, gift histories, record of gift placement arrangements, and related documentation.
- Records of Gifts and Bequests to the University. Documents related to gifts and bequests including copies of wills, copies of deeds and titles, maps and surveys (if applicable), and records of establishment of and use of monies generated by trust fund or endowment.
- Permanent Financial Documentation. The following financial records are required to be kept permanently for historical and accounting purposes: tuition and fee schedules, university budgets, annual endowment fund reports, charts of accounts, general ledgers, annual financial statements, and annual payroll earnings records. Other financial records are listed separately and have temporary retention requirements.
- University Budget. The university budget is the official final budget for the university for the fiscal/academic year. It is necessary to document the budget the university worked under for a given year.
- Grant Records (data management plan and final grant reports/publications). These reports are created at the end of a grant project as required by the grantor. The reports are necessary to document the activities and results of grant projects.
- Search Committee Files (president/chancellor). These records document the university's process of searching for and selecting candidates for president/chancellor.

Public Universities of Alabama General Records Disposition Authority

This Records Disposition Authority (RDA) is issued by the State Records Commission under the authority granted by the Code of Alabama 1975, Sections 41-13-5 and 41-13-20 through 21. It was compiled by the Archives Division, Alabama Department of Archives and History (ADAH), which serves as the Commission's staff, in cooperation with representatives of the Agency. The RDA lists records created and maintained by the Agency in carrying out their mandated functions and activities. It establishes minimum retention periods and disposition instructions for those records and provides the legal authority for the Agency to implement records destruction.

Alabama law requires public officials to create and maintain records that document the business of their offices. These records must be protected from "mutilation, loss, or destruction," so that they may be transferred to an official's successor in office and may be made available to members of the public. Records also must be kept in accordance with auditing standards approved by the Examiners of Public Accounts (Code of Alabama 1975, Sections 36-12-2, 36-12-4, and 41-5-23). For assistance in implementing this RDA, or for advice on records disposition or other records management concerns, contact the agency records manager or ADAH Archives Division at (334) 242-4452.

Explanation of Records Requirements

The RDA shall govern the disposition of all records, regardless of format, created by the agency from creation to dissolution. Please contact the staff of the Department of Archives and History before destroying any records created prior to 1940.

This RDA supersedes any previous records disposition schedules or RDAs governing the retention of the records created by the Agency. Copies of superseded schedules are no longer valid and may not be used for records disposition.

The RDA establishes retention and disposition instructions for records listed below, regardless of the medium on which those records may be kept. Electronic mail, for example, is a communications tool that may record permanent or temporary information. As for records in any other format, the retention periods for e-mail records are governed by the requirements of the subfunctions to which the records belong.

Certain other record-like materials are not actually regarded as official records and may be disposed of under this RDA. Such materials include (1) duplicate record copies that do not require official action, so long as the creating office maintains the original record for the period required; (2) catalogs, trade journals, and other publications received that require no action and do not document agency activities; (3) stocks of blank stationery, blank forms, or other surplus materials that are not subject to audit and have become obsolete; (4) transitory records, which are temporary records created for short-term, internal purposes, may include, but are not limited to, telephone call-back messages, drafts of ordinary documents not needed for their evidential value, copies of material sent for information purposes but not needed by the receiving office for future business, and internal communications about social activities; (5) honorary materials, plaques, awards, presentations, certificates, and gifts received or maintained by the agency staff. They may be disposed of without documentation of destruction.

For the purposes of this RDA, the word “audit” refers to the traditional financial and compliance audit, including Federal compliance, performed by the State Examiners of Public Accounts and/or a licensed auditing firm. These audits focus on two areas: reliability and accuracy of financial statements; and compliance with laws, ordinances, regulations, and other requirements.

Records Disposition Requirements

This section of the RDA is arranged by subfunctions of the Agency and lists the groups of records created and/or maintained as a result of activities and transactions performed in carrying out these subfunctions. The Agency may submit requests to revise specific records disposition requirements to the State Records Commission for consideration at its regular biannual meetings.

Requirement and Recommendations for Implementing the Records Disposition Authority (RDA)

Requirement

Under the Code of Alabama 1975, Section 41-13-21, “no state officer or agency head shall cause any state record to be destroyed or otherwise disposed of without first obtaining approval of the State Records Commission.” This Records Disposition Authority constitutes authorization by the State Records Commission for the disposition of the records of the Agency as stipulated in this document.

One condition of this authorization is that the Agency submit an annual Records Disposition Authority (RDA) Implementation Report on its activities, including documentation of records destruction, to the State Records Commission.

Recommendations

In addition, the Agency should make every effort to establish and maintain a quality record-keeping program by conducting the following activities:

The Agency should designate a staff member in a managerial position as its records liaison/records manager, who is responsible for: ensuring the development of quality record keeping systems that meet the business and legal needs of the agency, coordinating the transfer and destruction of records, ensuring that permanent records held on alternative storage media (such as microforms and digital imaging systems) are maintained in compliance with national and state standards, and ensuring the regular implementation of the agency’s approved RDA.

Permanent records in the Agency’s custody should be maintained under proper intellectual control and in an environment that will ensure their physical order and preservation.

Destruction of temporary records, as authorized in this RDA, should occur agency-wide on a regular basis—for example, after the successful completion of an audit, at the end of an administration, or at the end of a fiscal year. Despite the RDA’s provisions, no record should be destroyed that is necessary to comply with requirements of the Open Meetings Act, audit requirements, or any legal notice or subpoena.

The agency should maintain full documentation of any computerized record-keeping system it employs. It should develop procedures for: (1) backing up all permanent records held in electronic format; (2) storing a back-up copy off-site; and (3) migrating all permanent records when the system is upgraded or replaced. If the agency chooses to maintain permanent records solely in electronic format, it is committed to funding any system upgrades and migration strategies necessary to ensure the records’ permanent preservation and accessibility.

Electronic mail contains permanent, temporary, or transitory record information. Although e-mail records can be printed out, filed, and retained according to the RDA's requirements, the office should preferably employ an electronic records management system capable of sorting e-mail into folders and archiving messages having long-term value.

The staff of the State Records Commission or the Examiners of Public Accounts may examine the condition of the permanent records maintained in the custody of the Agency and inspect records destruction documentation. Agency records managers and/or the ADAH archivists are available to instruct the staff in RDA implementation and otherwise assist the Agency in implementing its records management program.

The State Records Commission adopted this records disposition authority on May 24, 2017.
